

Policy Conflict Minerals

We are aware of the growing concern associated with the extraction and sale of conflict minerals in the context of armed conflicts and human rights violations, which are traded or sold by armed groups.

We strive not to buy any material containing conflict minerals that directly or indirectly favor armed groups that contribute to significant human rights abuses.

We analyze our supply chain regarding conflict minerals and trust the information from our suppliers.

We expect that products and components we receive from our suppliers do not contain conflict minerals
